BAOR ORDER OF BATTLE
JULY 1989

“But Pardon, and Gentles all,
The flat unraised spirits that have dared
On this unworthy scaffold to bring forth
So great an object....”

Chorus, Henry V Act 1, Prologue

This document began over five years ago from my frustration in the lack of information (or just plain wrong information) regarding the British Army of The Rhine in general and the late Cold War in particular. The more I researched through books, correspondence, and through direct questions to several “Old & Bold” on Regimental Association Forums, the more I became determined to fill in this gap. The results are what you see in the following pages.

Before I begin a list of acknowledgements let me recognize my two co-authors, for this is as much their work as well as mine. “PM” was instrumental in sharing his research on the support Corps, did countless hours of legwork, and never failed to dig up information on some of my arcane questions. “John” made me “THINK” British Army! He has been an inspiration; a large part of this work would have not been possible without him. He added the maps and the color formation signs, as well as reformatting the whole document. I can only humbly say that these two gentlemen deserve any and all accolades as a result of this document.

Though we have put much work into this document it is far from finished. Anyone who would like to contribute information of their time in BAOR or sources please contact me at BAORORBAT@gmail.com. The document will be updated with new information periodically.

A further note, though the title says 1989 the relevant official documents (MORBAT, see Bibliography) seem to have been misplaced at the Ministry of Defence. Thus much of this work is based on the MORBAT dated December 1991. Additional research seems to indicate that, aside from adding several units, the overall ORBAT was stable during these years. However if there are any factual errors they are mine alone and please feel free to correct me.
I would like to quickly thank the following; I will be adding a more comprehensive list in later editions. But, for now:

- Hans Boersma and his fantastic site, https://www.orbat85.nl/
- RAOConline Forum: Mike 2817, clivethomas, Smeg, Peter, Meltdown, SteveSutton, keeler, ron9516, soldier1, GeoffM, SupCon01, Covel, matanvah, frank, and NigelAstley. If I missed anyone I humbly apologize.
- The Royal Artillery Association Forum: addick, Sunray-minor, juheeman, Pat..D, mbeazley, pjobson, Phil, cloudpunching46th, and Niagra18.
- Soldier Magazine: Andy Clarkson

- Royal Artillery Library, Woolwich: Paul Evans
- The British Library: Joanne Hawkins
- Bridget Morrison and Emma Jones at the MOD, whose patience in answering all my questions and their time in researching my Freedom of Information requests was/is invaluable.
- BAOR-locations.org, simply invaluable! : JPW, steve, Wilf, and Nobby, soprano54, alan8376
- Manfred Tegge: Thank you for all the German corrections
- Kieran Marum: A special thanks for all the senior officer appointments
- Andy Rix at coldwargamer.blogspot.com
- ARRSE: postman_twit, septic sid, Petardier, Retd_crab, brettarider, Highlander_Spy, diehard57, Effendi, SapperD., Toastie, Speedy, Alien FTM, feu_de_joie, Jorrocks, greenbaggyskin, walrusboy, Berlin_104s, Harry Clammers
- To all those Tanknetters (Stuart, Rob, Ray, Ryan, Hans, John, and Phil) who provided me with their support in this endeavor, I sincerely thank you.

Finally, John and PM, again they are the equal co-authors of this work. Without them this document would never have been completed.

BAOR in July 1989 (including reinforcements on Transition To War)

This document catalogues the Order of Battle of BAOR in July 1989. At that time it is easiest to envisage BAOR as consisting of five main elements:

- HQ BAOR and BAOR Troops. HQ British Rhine Army was commanded by a four-star general from Rheindahlen, which also housed the headquarters of RAF Germany, NORTHAG and 2nd Allied Tactical Air Force. In the event of a war, BAOR would come under NATO command and Comd BAOR became Comd NORTHAG. NORTHAG’s operational area extended from Hamburg down to Kassel and from the Netherlands border to the Inner German border. The ‘remaining’ elements of HQ BAOR would form British Support Command which would supply 1 (BR) Corps and guard the rear areas. In peacetime the BAOR laydown looked like this:
• 1 (BR) Corps. 1 (BR) Corps was by far the largest element of BAOR. HQ 1 (BR) Corps was based in Bielefeld. In war it would defend a sector of the North German Plain between 1 (GE) Corps and 1 (BE) Corps. The 1 BR Corps area on Transition to War extended, on its North-South axis, from a line just north of Hanover to just north of Kassel (the foothills of the Harz Mountains). On its East-West axis, it extended from the Inner German Border to a line just west of Soest. (The Corps Forward Area was east of the Weser River and the Corps Rear Area west of it.) See Map.

NORTHAG itself was commanded by AFCENT. 1 (BR) Corps consisted of Corps Troops and four divisions. 1, 3 and 4 Armd Divisions (less 19 Inf Bde) were based in Germany. In time of war 1 (BR) Corps was reinforced by the UK based 2 Inf Div and 19 Inf Bde as well as scores of other units. Besides Regular reinforcements, 53, 800 Territorial Army and 67,500 Individual Reservists (51,200 for War Establishment Reinforcements (WER), for both Regular & TA units; 13,300 Battle Casualty Replacements (BCR); and 3,000 for General Service Units (GSU)) would bring BAORs total to well over 200,000.

Whilst this document does not seek to describe the envisaged battle plans a brief understanding can help explain the nature of the British ORBAT. 1 (BR) Corps was faced by the Soviet 3rd Shock Army as the first echelon force with 20th Guards Army as the second echelon. The plan to defeat the Soviets involved four elements. Firstly a screening/covering force would delay the Soviet advance allowing the Armd Divisions to prepare their defensive positions and confirm the axes of advance. Secondly the main defensive battle was initially fought by 1 Armd Div (forward left i.e. north) and 4 Armd Div (forward right i.e. south). 4 Armd Div’s area was more woody and undulating – hence the presence of 19 Inf Bde in 4 Armd Div. It was planned that 1 & 4 Armd Div’s efforts would force a Soviet echelon change. Thirdly 3 Armd Div was to the rear and would strike to defeat the Soviet 2nd Echelon and seize the initiative. This counterstroke mission explains why the STRIKER in 3 Armd Div’s Recce Regt (9th/12th Lancers) were grouped into a single squadron whilst in the Screening Force Recce Regts they provided a troop in each squadron to provide overwatch. Finally 2 Inf Div defended the Corps Rear Area with responsibility for the River Weser as a back stop. See Map.

(From Thompson, Graham N. & Nevill, Teddy. The Territorial Army. Ian Allan Ltd, 1989)

- British Rear Combat Zone. BR RCZ had its headquarters in Dusseldorf. It was responsible for the resupply of the fighting formations.
- The British Communications Zone. BR Comm Z had its headquarters at Emblem in Belgium. It was tasked to receive reinforcements from Great Britain and to co-ordinate their onward movement to 1 (BR) Corps.
- British Sector Berlin. The fourth and final element was the Berlin Infantry Brigade, which was 3,000 strong and not subordinated to NORTHAG but under the control of the Allied Control Council in Berlin.

Note: As you can tell the publisher made a few mistakes placing towns & cities on the map.

For clarity and ease the units are grouped into the following elements. BAOR Tps groups those units supporting BAOR as a whole, the BR RCZ, CommZ and NATO. Each page in a section is tagged with the section title for ease of reference.

Bibliography

For the most part Units are listed firstly by their parent Formation (Corps / Division and Brigade) and then by the British Army’s Order of Precedence (RAC, RA, RE, Avn, R SIGNALS, Inf & SAS, Tpt, Med, Sup, Maint, Pro, PCS, Lab & Int). In some instances units are grouped together by function e.g. Fmn HQ Signals / RPC HQ Defence Platoon and Int Sect. Postal & Courier Units have been listed with the other RE units.

Note Regarding the introduction of MLRS and the role of 1st BR Corps Artillery in the 1990’s:

Maj Gen Quayle wrote an article in the February 1990 edition of the U.S. Army’s Field Artillery Bulletin. In it he describes plans for the Corps Artillery in the 1990’s. There would be 3x MLRS Regts (2x Hy Btys, each with 9x MLRS in three troops, & a Locating Bty with a Phoenix RPV, Meteorological, & Sound-Ranging Tps.) as “General Support” under a Colonel (Deputy Commander of 1st Artillery Bde) designated “Commander General Support”. The two forward Division Artillery Groups (1st & 4th) would also have “….each of our forward divisions will have more than 100 guns of 155mm calibre.” So it seems that the besides the five 155 mm Regts in BAOR, plus the two reinforcing Regts from the UK, there would have to be at least one additional Regt assigned. At this stage I have no further information in regards.

94 Locating Regt RA “Kent Gunners”
Location: Roberts Bks, Larkhill
- HQ Bty
  Note: 15 Offrs 106 ORs with AD Sect (4x Javelin MANPADS), Meteorological & Survey Tp, & Force Arty HQ AMF (L). Fire Direction Centre Gp (FDC) assigned to BAOR.
  - 5 (Gibraltar 1779-83) Field Bty
    Note: 8 Offrs 148 ORs with 6x L118 LIGHT GUNS. Assigned to AMF (L)
  - 22 (Gibraltar 1779-83) Locating Bty

  - 73 (Sphinx) Mortar Locating Bty
    Note: 6 Offrs 176 ORs in BHQ & 3x Mortar Loc Tps. BHQ & 2x Tps to BAOR. 1x Tp to UKMF
  - 156 (Inkerman) Locating Bty
    Note: 10 Offrs 224 ORs with Sound Ranging, Drone, and Meteorological Tps & RAOC Sect. Assigned to BAOR, to 39 Hy Regt
  - Wksp REME
    Note: Only 156 Bty, 2xTps 73 Bty, & the FDC Gp BAOR assigned

Note on 73 Bty: 73 (Sphinx) Mortar Locating Bty was placed in suspended animation in March 1991, its personnel going to each of the four M109 Regts to form Mortar Loc Tps (the Abbot Regts already had them). In April 1991 the Bty was reformed using personnel taken from the SBOPs from 5 & 32 Hy Regts and renamed 73 (Sphinx) Special OP Bty and came under peacetime command of 5 Hy Regt. Thus 73 Bty became the regular counterpart of the HAC.

Note: Security for 50 Missile Regt. The UKLF ORBAT Review Action Plan recommended that an additional TA Inf Bn be formed in London District for MHD which would “resolve the 8 QF anomaly”. It does not elaborate further if the Bn was going to be split along Queen’s Regt/RRF lines or if a new two Bn “London Regt” would be formed.

TA Observation Post Batteries (provided the third OP party to each regular field battery)

307 (South Nottinghamshire Hussars Yeomanry, RHA) OP Bty RA (V)
Location: TAC Hucknall Lane, Bulwell, Nottingham
Note: Support 2 Inf Div. In 1988 the CRA decided that there was no need for a third OP (from the TA) in each Fd Bty (the plans were for WARRIOR to be issued to the Fd Regts, it was felt that WARRIOR was too complicated for the TA). The Bty, without official sanction, approached the Parachute Regiment Group (see page 44) with the proposal to supply OP Parties to the Group. This offer was immediately taken up and an agreement reached where selected members of the Bty would be sponsored by the PRG through P Company and parachute training. Also in April 1990 the ancient 25pdrs were replaced by 6x ROF 105mm Light Guns. This arrangement apparently came to an end in July 1990 when “officialdom” realized what had been transpiring. All this information was gleaned from “Never Say Die: The Story of The South Notts Hussars 1947-2006” the book is based on taped interviews with members of the Regt/Bty and edited by Capt James Gunn.

Note: provided the third OP to each Fd Bty, however by 1989 a third regular FOO Party was provided to each regular Regt (see above). Thus leaving the TA Op Btys without a role.
Further Notes: each Bty provided 18x Observation Teams each of 1 Captain and 6 ORs. Each Bty also a troop of 3x 25pdrs guns on strength. Each 22 Offrs 18 WOs/SNCOs 60 JNCOs 69 ORs. Total 169 All Ranks.

Type: AD REGT (HVM)
  • RHQ & HQ Tp
  • V Air Defence Bty
  • M Air Defence Bty
  • H Air Defence Bty (Ramsay's Troop)
  • Wksp REME
Note: To be formed in the early 1990’s when STARSTREAK HVM comes into service (in service date 1991-93) to consist of three batteries each of 36x HVM STORMER. The British Army: A Pocket Guide 2nd Edition (1986-87), states it would be numbered “15” this had been confirmed by correspondence with the Royal Artillery Museum. However new information direct from the MOD indicate it would be numbered “6” (I side with MOD on this one, 6 used to be a RHA Regt and the Btys were all old RHA units). See also “New Air Defence Regiment for BAOR”, Jane’s Defence Weekly, 27 December 1987. As per BAOR’s submission to The TA ORBAT Review, HQ 1st Arty Bde felt it was “highly desirable” that a fourth crewmember be added to each vehicle crew. Options were a new TA Bty or individual reservists who were capable of being trained as a driver, signaler and missile operator. The total requirement was for 108 ORs
Further Notes: After the formation of 6 AD Regt, each Armd Div would have 1x AD Bty with JAVELIN, 1x HVM Bty, and 1x TRACKED RAPIER Bty, and 1x TOWED RAPIER Bty assigned. I believe that three of the AD Regts would then take over these four btys (one AD Regt HQ to each Armd Div) leaving one AD Regt HQ to command the remaining 3x TOWED RAPIER and 1x TRACKED RAPIER Btys for the Corps Rear Area. As per the 1988/89 Staff College Precis the CO of each Rapier Regt would become the Divisional Air Defence Commander, his job would be to work between the Rapier Regimental Command Post (RCP) and the Divisional Air Defence Cell (DADC)

Note: Each Bty established for 16x JAVELIN MANPADS and 12x OPs.

Further notes: As per BAOR’s submission to The TA ORBAT Review, HQ 1st Arty Bde felt it was “highly desirable” that the Parachute Regiment Group be assigned a BADLO (Bde AD Liaison Officer) party of 1x Offr and 1x SNCO (24hr manning) to advise PRG Comd on AD, as well as to command and coordinate any intimate AD assets. 15 and 49 Inf Bdes already had 2x BADLO parties from 16 AD Regt and 24 Airmobile Bde 1x from 21 AD Bty. These three Regts seem to have had a role in both the CRA and RCZ. Sources: 1988 SOHB & “Armed Forces Magazine July 1987 Vol 6 No 7”

CVHQ RA provided Watchkeepers for Arty Staff in HQs, Rapier Operators and trained augmentees for Meteorological sects.

Single Channel Radio Access (Central) (SCRA(C)) x6 as part of SCRA coverage in the whole Corps area, but mostly the rear area.
Note: “Post-Ptarmigan from 1986, the RR capability in 4 Sqn, was centred on the SCRA Central (SCRA(C)) troop; Juliet Troop. It had approximately 10 SCRA (C) vehicles and these were collected from Tewkesbury in '86, tested in Blandford, driven to Marchwood, sailed into Antwerp on the RFA Sir Tristram and driven to Lippstadt. They were crewed by a RR Op Det Comd, a RR Op Crewman and sometimes a RR Tech. The other two troops (Kilo and Lima troops) in 4 Sqn were roled as SAS/MC and were crewed by D Tgs, RR Ops and RR Techs. ED/Cbt Powerman were often centralised on rover groups.”

- D Coy - TAC Myrtle St, Crewe w/ Pl @ TAC Darwen St, Northwich (13, 14, 15, 16 Pls)

The Comms Sy Bn was Special-to-role and had no support weapons but did have a Recce Pl.

The following is information from a former TA Officer:

“The official role was COMCEN defence. COMCEN being RSigs Communications Centre. These were provided for formation HQs (i.e. brigade level and above) and depending on size would require a platoon, or a full rifle company to defend them. These would shift every 24/48 hours due to the massive electromagnetic signature. The purpose of our Bn was simply guarding and perimeter patrolling to allow the RSigs personnel to concentrate on their duties without having to stand stag.

Though this was our wartime role (at least from 1979-1982 while I was involved) it was only ever practiced on large exercises like Crusader 80 (no doubt, because it was fairly undemanding). In our normal yearly training, we practised the four phases of war as any other normal Inf bn - attack, defence, advance to contact and withdrawal - along with extensive patrolling, platoon attacks/advances to contact, FIBUA and FIFAW. Our battalion had four rifle companies and due to the nature of the wartime role we had no support coy (i.e. no mortars, ATGW, assault pioneer etc). GPMG (SF) kits were kept at company level and we used the 84mm and 66mm for defence and practiced with these on field firing ranges.

All told I reckon it would have taken our battalion around 3.5 months to fully work up to standard where we could have been comparable with a regular air portable inf battalion ( 2 months field training, plus 1 month with barracks-related training and a couple of weeks field firing). Some will disagree with this assessment but having I reckon 3.5 months, properly programmed, would easily have done it.”

Note: The TA SAS Regts operated as SBOP (Stay Behind Observation Posts) and LRRPs. Missions included recce of Warsaw Pact MSRs (including, from what I have read, the elimination of WP Traffic Control Personnel), aircrew escape, artillery direction, and airstrike control. The last two included tactical nuclear strike target identification.

The following information was posted at this site:
http://www.strategypage.com/militaryforums/567-1622.aspx#startofcomments
“…..HAC did the TacNuc; 21 SAS did the "roadwatch" (ident of WP formations, especially headquarters and, critically nationality - the Poles were a key target); 23 SAS did the aircrew escape routes.”

- Wksp REME (V) - 31 Yorkhill Parade, Glasgow

Note: 3rd Line transport for 1 Armd Div, Corps Supply Area to Divisional Supply Area
Note: The unit assignments are as of 1985. There would have been a shift when 33 Armd Bde went from 4 Armd Div to 3 Armd Div. I however do not know at this time if regts switched or an individual sqn.

General Note: With the introduction of DROPS vehicles, HQ 1 (BR) Corps felt the vehicles were such high value targets that they asked that a LMG dets of reservists (1x LCpl & 2x Ptes) be added to DROPS Regts to protect them in both hides and during operations. HQ 1 BR Corps called for the following:
- 69 x dets:
  - 15x dets each (total of 45) for 1 and 3 Armd Div Tpt Regts and 8 Regt
  - 10x dets for 4 Armd Div Tpt Regt
  - 10x dets for 10 Corps Tpt Regt
(4x dets are unallocated)

The Operational Role of 124 Recovery Company was to implement the REME Recovery Plan for the 1 (BR) Corps Rear Area under command Commander REME Corps Troops (this was trialed on Exercise Lionheart in 1984). In Layman's terms this was to provide an AA Relay style Roadside Rescue Service along the Main Supply Routes and Vulnerable Points (including the Weser Crossing Points) in the area west of the Forward Divisions rear boundaries to the Rear Combat Zone. The unit was under peacetime administrative command of 15 Infantry Brigade and there were thoughts that an element of the unit should rerole to provide the REME 2nd Line Workshop support to the Brigade on operations as mentioned elsewhere in this document. Note: The Bn would be reinforced by at least 6x MILAN Pls (6x FPs each) from Regular Type B Bns assigned to MHD and/or TA Bns on LOC duties in BRSC.

MECH INF BN (TRACKED) has 36 Offrs 724 ORS. In TTW 10 Offrs (watchkeepers & liasons) along with 11 ORs (5x RAMC NCOs) are added. 79x FV432, 8x FV107 SCIMITAR, 4x FV103 SPARTAN w/MCT, 8x 81mm MORTARS, & 24x MILAN FPs.

Note on TA Inf Bns: BAOR assigned TA Inf Bns were established for a Recce Pl (in 5x ¾ tonne LAND ROVERS FFR), a MILAN Pl with 6x MILAN FPs, a Mortar Pl with 6x 81mm MORTARS, and a SFMG Pl with 12x GPMG (SF). Transport was based on BEDFORD series trucks.

Armoured Infantry and Mechanized Infantry, both wheeled and tracked, have a similar organization of Bn HQ & HQ Coy, 3x Rifle Coys, & a Fire Sp Coy. The Fire Sp Coy HQ is exactly the same as the Rifle Coys HQs and can operate as a fourth maneuver Coy on operations. In peacetime it is responsible for coordinating the training of the Recce, MILAN, & Mortar Pls, which on operations would be commanded directly by the Bn/BG HQ.

24 Airmob Bde Pro Unit RMP (from 150 Pro Coy RMP)
Location: Beach Head Lines, Catterick Garrison
Note: The unit consisted of HQ & G4 element and 5 & 6 Pls from 150 Pro Coy RMP.

Note: The Brigades role was evolving at this stage from a CRA blocking force to a NORTHAG wide airmobile Anti-Tank blocking force. There were plans at this time to combine the Brigade, in TTW, with the FRG Luftlande Bde and the Belgian Para-Commando Regt to form a NORTHAG Airmobile Div.

Note: MECH INF BN (WHEELED) has 35 Offrs 656 ORS. In TTW 6 Offrs (watchkeepers & liasons) along with 5 ORS (RAMC NCOS) are added. 43x AT105 SAXON, 8x FV721 FOX, 16x LAND ROVER 1-TONNE (for MILAN & MORTARS), 4x LAND ROVER 3/4 -TONNE (mobile MILAN Sect), 8x 81mm MORTARS, 24x MILAN FPs, 9x GPMG SF. Source: 1988 SOHB

Prior to forming as a Airmobile Bde, 24th Inf Bde was the the Corps Reserve to be used in the FEBA if need be. BAOR believed it was an Armd Bde & Airmobile Bde short and wanted 1st Inf Bde withdrawn from the UKMF role in order to form two additional Bdes with its assets. Due to NATO political considerations this was not possible. 24th Inf Bde took over the Airmobile role thus leaving BAOR still short an Armd Bde and now an Inf Bde. This necessitated 15th Inf Bde taking on the Corps Reserve task.

Excerpt from “Soldiers of The Queens: The Periodic Journal of The Queen’s Regimental Association 2013”:

“The then current plans called for the Battalion to be reinforced on deployment by six MILAN platoons from other (Home Defence) battalions, in the event, two of them (5/8 KINGS and 3RRW) were able to join the Battalion for this exercise. The MILAN Platoon commander, Captain Mark Whelan, was a very happy man indeed! It was thus a very strong Battalion which deployed to Germany on Friday 8th of September and was delighted to be hosted and administered by its comrades from the 2nd Battalion.” Part of an Article on 5 Queen’s in 1989 by Philip Pearce

“5 Queens had an anti tank role in either the Springe or Coppenbrugge gaps. They were to provide the static Milan posns in the gap thereby freeing up the Regular Milan plns to remain mobile.” Again thanks to ARRSE member “mushroom”

Note on TA Inf Bns: BAOR assigned TA Inf Bns were established for a Recce Pl (in 5x ¾ tonne LAND ROVERS FFR), a MILAN Pl with 6x MILAN FPs, a Mortar Pl with 6x 81mm MORTARS, and a SFMG Pl with 12x GPMG (SF). Transport was based on BEDFORD series trucks.

Note: Bns role was to provide Lines of Communications security along the MSR from Olen in Belgium to the CRA and act as the HQ for the initial Force Reinforcement Holding Unit. During Exercise Plain Sailing in September 1989, the Bn deployed A & C Coys in Belgium while HQ, B & D Coys were in the CRA and RCZ along the Dutch border. The following is MOD’s response to a FOI on the subject:

“This in this case I can advise that we do not recognise the term ‘JTP362A Battalion’. However, I can confirm that 2nd Battalion, The Royal Green Jackets were based at Connaught Barracks, Dover from c. July 1988 to February 1991. During that period, they deployed to Northern Ireland as a roulement battalion and had a Lines of Communication role in BAOR during TTW, where they would have deployed on the resupply route, undertaking installation guard duties, handling reservists and despatching units into Germany (by air and land), and generally ensuring that the resupply system worked. If you require further assistance in clarifying their role you may wish to contact the RGJ Museum”

Note: Security for HQ BRSC as per documents obtained from MOD (as of 1991). MILAN Pl to 2 Inf Div. However during Ex Plain Sailing in 1989;

“B Coy’s Role was protection and security for the RCZ HQ. We were accommodated on the 2 or 3 floors in the old Luftwaffe Sgts Mess in the barracks next to Dusseldorf airport. It could have been Caernarvon Barracks. I remember that our A Coy was responsible in the next barracks for a POW facility, with MPs over from MCTC Colchester. B Coy flew from Manchester Airport to Dusseldorf direct, and were chosen for this task because we were Champion Company, and the remainder of the Bn went to Holcombe Moor camp near Bolton, before coming to Germany and was reinforced by reservists. When they came by road, it Land Rovers and 4 ton Bedfords. During the second week of Annual Camp we were in Sennelager and spent our time on range work, Coy Exercises and visits to the Inner German border. The journey back to the UK was a nightmare sea journey on the “Petrel”, from Rotterdam to Harwich in force 10 gales. Any vehicles on the top deck were damaged during this journey.” Info from Major (Retd) John Woodhouse

According to The Lancashire Lad: The Journal of The Queen’s Lancashire Regiment May 1988 Vol.VIII No.1 the Bn had exercised in the Bridge Demolition Guard role.

General Note: The above TA Inf Bns had their MILAN (AT) Pl assigned to Bns/Bdes in the FEBA/CRA. HQ BAOR had originally put forward a proposal for these Pls to be taken from their Bns and permanently made part of the units they supported, ie 3 RRW would disband their Pl and 5 Queens would expand theirs. Another proposal was to group the MILAN Pls in a single TA Bn/Bns like the “Middlesex Regt” in World War II. However my sources tell me that HQ BAOR withdrew its own proposal on the realization that it would take too long to implement (2-3 years) and that it would preclude having the flexibility to use the Bns affected in the FEBA/CRA if need be.

Inventory Control Point BAOR RAOC
Location: Hilsea Bks, Viersen
Note: “I was in Printing and Stationery Group (P&S) RAOC, based in Viersen. We were tasked out of JHQ and were located in Viersen because, lets face it, who wants a large print works in a HQ. We were effectively administered by OSV and did duties there but, that was for convenience etc, etc.

There was also the Central Distribution Point (CDP) at OSV. This was a rail and vehicle link warehouse for the receipt and despatch of goods arriving and departing BAOR - most things that arrived in BAOR touched the CDP before onward movement.

Viersen also contained a carto supply unit manned by a sole German WO who was effectively the single member of a sub-unit of NORTHAG and had the tax free joy of living in our Sgt’s Mess. Again this was a convenience location as no one could provide a football field sized location in JHQ to store pallets of map’s.

Viersen was a peculiar place with around 90 Britmil male staff mainly members of the WO’s and Sgt’s Mess, less than 20 junior ranks and a shed load of WRAC bussed in every morning from their accomodation in Rheindahlen. Whilst OSV had the ICP and CDP along with the huge pre-WW2 Kaisers Kaffee warehouses storing all manner of strange objects some of the units hidden away in there had nothing to do with OSV other than using the admin and messing facilities.”

Note: “Drugs Intelligence Team of the Special Investigation Branch of the RMP. My mate was effectively the Sgt Maj there, they were responsible for Miami Vice like operations in BAOR, BENELUX and even much further afield should long hair, Rolex wearing, types be needed. They had their own shed in Rheindahlen and due to the undercover nature of their work had not much to do with work a day units. They did train up the lads at 6 Support Platoon RMP (close protection) to assist with their work.” Again courtesy of Effendi (ARRSE)

Royal Army Pay Corps BAOR
Notes: The RAPC consisted of personnel attached to HQ (i/c financial matters and auditing) and unit pay teams attached to individual units responsible for collecting pay, distribution and collating records for sending back to the UK, which was operating a computerised pay system through five regimental pay offices at the start of the 1980s to a single entity here in Winchester by the late 1980s. In the event of hostilities, the HQ staff would have assisted in providing financial assistance to HQ and other organisations ie paying for services, emergency transportation, evacuation of BAOR families etc. For the pay teams I have been unable to identify a specific role. My research has indicated that unit COs used RAPC personnel as they saw fit ie administration, casualty recording etc. If you look at Operation CORPORATE (Falklands Campaign) RAPC personnel were used for HQ defence, casualty recovery and ammunition parties; those Spanish speakers were used to interrogate Argentine PoW whilst those attached to the PARA units were formed into mixed sections to attack/ provide supporting fire during the assaults on Stanley. Royal Army Education Corps
Notes: The RAEC was all officer from the mid 1960s, the Corps teaching basic skills and promotional courses in fixed Education Centres and through attached Unit Education Officers. In the event of a conflict, junior RAEC officers ie: those of Major and below were assigned to be Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Defence officers monitoring for and informing command of any Soviet use of these weapons. Those of higher rank were designated Liaison Officers, working with local civilian authorities and Army HQs. The retired Brigadier I spoke to indicated that he was to liaise between the Regional Police HQ and Army HQ as required. Source: Adjudant General Corps Museum

The Army Legal Corps
Notes: The ALC had a small presence in Germany mainly working with the Army Prosecution Service. In the event of any conflict, junior officers (Captain/Major) were to be assigned to PoW collection points whilst those of senior rank supported / advised Army HQ on the legality of military actions taking place. Appendix A: The Continental TA

In 1984 BAOR began a pilot scheme to recruit ex-service personnel that had settled on the continent (mostly in The Low Countries and West Germany). Six (6) Sqn/Tp/Pl size units were formed (listed by parent formation in the document). By 1989 the success of the scheme was apparent and BAOR prepared to expand the “Continental TA” to 2,000 personnel. Starting in 1990, the expansion was to be in two phases. I have listed them for interest here.

Notes on British Main Battle Tanks:

In 1990 the British Army had, in service, 1,072 MBTs (426 Challenger 1 & 646 Chieftains) including WMR, Repair Pool, & Training. This was divided up as follows: (as planned for January 1992)

Chieftain
- 1x Type 43 Regt (17/21 L) = 43 tanks
- 5x Type 57 Regts (4/7 DG, Innis DG, 15/19 H, 1 RTR, & 4 RTR) = 285 tanks
- 1x Armd Sqn, Berlin (Sqn from 14/20 H) = 18 tanks (all Mk 10/C)
- 1x Armd Sqn, UKMF (Sqn from 17/21 L) = 14 tanks
Total = 360 tanks (286 WMR, Repair Pool or Training. This includes 2x Sqns worth at BATUS).

Challenger
- 3x Type 43 Regts (LG, RH, 14/20 H) = 129 tanks
- 4x Type 57 Regts (Scots DG, QRIH, QOH, & 3 RTR) = 228 tanks
Total = 357 tanks (69 WMR, Repair Pool, or Training)

Note: The Royal Hussars fourth sqn would be providing the Garrison Armd Recce in Cyprus

The RAC expected to have every regiment back up to the Type 57 establishment in the 1990’s (except for the in-Armd role Household Cavalry). Thus the original order for the replacement of Chieftain/Challenger (ie Challenger 2) was expected to be 800 tanks (727 in service plus 73 for non-operational roles). Concerning this optimistic forecaste, I have included part of an email from the Staff at the RAC Museum:

“The only other information I have found dates back to 1987 and the concerns of DRAC that manpower problems were having an effect on 15 of the 19 RAC Regiments and that some were struggling to man all of their equipment in a Type 57 regt. There were also concerns regarding the introduction of Type 43 Regts and how these would be employed. In addition, DRAC had also been asked to consider whether troops should be re-organised into four tank troops rather than three tank troops. DRAC was still in favour of 3 tank troops.”

I suspect that by the time of complete roll-out of Challenger 2, the British tank fleet would consist of the following: (if the Chieftains and/or Challenger 1s weren’t sold off to anyone)

- Challenger 2  727 in service (13 armd regts) plus 73 Repair Pool & Training
- Challenger 1  420 WMR
- Chieftain Mk 11  324 WMR

Total fleet of 1,544 MBTs

There were plans for further Marks of of Chieftain (upgrades) and replacement of Cenurions in AVRE and RA OPV roles by Chieftain hulls.

Chieftain

A total of 941 Chieftain gun tanks were produced for the British Army, Mk 1 (all used for Training) thru Mk 5. Of these 941, 789 were upgraded (Mk 6 thru 8) and 17 were converted to “Willich Chieftains” AVRE. Of the total of 886 Mk 5 thru 8 Chieftains, 775 were upgraded by the REME as Mk 9 (Muzzle Reference System & Improved Fire Control System). The REME further installed CLANSMEN (notated as a Mk 9/C for example) in 527 hulls. The final Chieftain Marks were the Mk 10, up-armoured with STILLBREW (480 Mk 9) and Mk 11, which were Mk 10s with TOGS installed (324 hulls). Additional Mks were planned

TOGS (Thermal Observation and Gunnery Sight) buy was 895 units. 420 went to the Challenger 1 fleet and 324 to the Chieftain fleet. (151 units for WMR & Repair pool)

Note: All this information was gleaned from Rob Griffin’s and Lt Col Dick Lord’s excellent works on Chieftain and Challenger 1 & 2 (see bibliography), along with correspondence with the RAC (and some supposition on my part).

Appendix E: BAOR Ground Defence Plan

In Progress

The Parachute Regiment Group

Prior to the PRG trial starting in January 1989 there was extensive discussion within the Army regarding brigading the TA Para Bns together. From at least 1985 there was much communication in regards but money for a “new” operational Brigade was short. It wasn’t until modifications to the Ground Defence Plan were made that the need to defend Hildesheim by more than one TA Para Bn came to a crucial point necessitating the ad hoc nature of using The Parachute Regiment’s Regimental Colonel and Headquarters (which didn’t happen to have a TTW role) to form the unit for trials.

“The principal task of PRG is to deny HILDESHEIM to the enemy throughout the Corps battle.”

The importance of this was because HILDESHEIM sat on key terrain between the VORHOLZ and the WATER SANDWICH (bounded by the LEINE to the west, INNERSTE to the south, the HILDESHEIMZWEIGKANAL to the east, and finally the MITTELLANDKANAL to the north), forcing an enemy attack through the town or being forced into the WATER SANDWICH. The only other, equally unattractive, option would force the enemy across the INNERSTE into the INNERSTE VALLEY and HILDESHEIMER WALD.

The WATER SANDWICH area was of prime importance to 1 Armd Div’s plans because it would serve as a protected area for the refurbishment of 7 Armd Bde after the Covering Force battle. As the Screening Force (see page 9) fixes the axis of the attack, 7 Armd Bde would fight a mobile battle to delay the enemy to allow 1 Armd Div to deploy to its defensive positions. After 7 Armd Bde’s refurbishment (expected to take 30 hours), it’s main countermove/attack options were predicated on HILDESHEIM being secure. Furthermore HILDESHEIM was to act as a pivot for any countermoves/attacks onto HANNOVER PLAIN by 1 BR Corps or NORTHAG Reserve.

PRG was tailored specifically to FIBUA in HILDESHEIM and it was not foreseen nor did it have the capability to deploy elsewhere (except perhaps in another similar town or heavily forested area). Its raison d’etre was control of the town and deny it to the Soviets, keep the MSRs through the town open, provide 7 Armd Bde a secure refurbishment area and keep it secure until the Bde was once again battle ready, and finally to keep routes through the area open for any counterattacks and if need be establish a forward assembly area for it.
HQs 4 & 10 Para would have TAORs in the south-west & south-east respectively. While HQ 15 Para’s TAOR would be to the north. The whole PRG would be divide as follows:

1) Two Coys each with four MILAN FPs, under command of 1 Armd Div as reserve demolition guards on The Leine
2) A Perimeter Force made up of three Recce Pls and twenty MILAN FPs from all three Bns
3) A Security Force of eleven Coys and twenty MILAN FPs drawn from all three Bns. Additionally the Depth Bn was tasked with providing a QRF.
4) All three Mortar Pls would be grouped together as an ad hoc Mortar Coy to provide fire support to the whole group. Additionally it was foreseen that 307 (SNHY) OP Bty (see page 14) would provide six FOO Parties to the PRG along with two BADLOs from 104 AD Regt (see page 15)
5) The A echelons of all three Bns would be combined for logistic support in the town while the B echelons would combine in the Divisional area.

It was also envisioned that the JTP362A Bn (2 RGJ, see page 86) once released from its LOCs duties would deploy to the north-west of the town.

The PRG Trial Paper also requested additional Transport and Supply, Medical (an Ambulance Support Group), a complete TA Engineer Sqn, and a Provost Pl (it was recommended that a Continental TA Pl be assigned). An earlier version of the paper had a Medium Amd Recce Sqn assigned also.

Note: All the above was gleaned from DEFE 70/2243 Number 1 Task Force: Parachute Regiment Group trial. 1989 Feb 17 - 1990 Jun 02, Specifically HQ Parachute Regiment Trial-Final Report 4 Jan 1990. (which I have liberally paraphrased from)
